“Reportable IACUC-Approved Exceptions”

One protocol required food restrictions in non-human primates as a motivator for behavioral training. (Weights checked daily and rations adjusted so animals retain their age-appropriate body weights.) Experiments under this protocol were completed August 31, 2007 and food restrictions were removed as of that date.

One protocol requires the housing of a male prairie vole in a small wire cage (approx. 7 sq. in.) for 24 hours. The wire cage is placed inside the home cage of a female to allow new mating pairs to become accustomed to each other and prevent the animals from fighting during the initial phase. The male is provided food and a water source ad libitum.

SUMMARY OF EXEMPTIONS

October 1, 2006 to September 30, 2007

1. In a single protocol, three baboons had multiple survival surgeries performed in a study of perinatal physiology and developmental pharmacology in the pregnant baboon. The IACUC approved the multiple surgery protocol based on scientific justification and an exemption was also granted by USDA.
2. A protocol was approved for monkeys to undergo caloric restriction in a study on the effects of energy related peptides on reproductive hormone cycling. The IACUC approval was based on scientific justification. Six animals were used under this protocol during this reporting period.
3. The IACUC granted permission to house gerbils and guinea pigs in the same room in the Institute of Comparative Medicine Central Animal Facility. The conditions of the space were adjusted to allow for this housing and a microisolator top is kept on each gerbil cage. The average daily census for this reporting period was 8 guinea pigs and 11 gerbils.
4. In a single protocol, thirty dogs had two survival surgeries performed in a study of kidney function and experimental interventions following renal ischemia. The IACUC approved the multiple survival surgery protocol based on scientific justification.
